

Thanksgiving

Last Updated Sunday, 30 November 2008

I pray everyone had a wonderful Thanksgiving Day with many things to be thankful for! Just so no one feels sorry for me, although I didn't celebrate on Thursday, I did get to celebrate. In fact, I was blessed the day before Thanksgiving with a package from the USA which included a variety of my favorite breakfast cereals. So, I splurged on Thursday with not 1, but 2 bowls of cereal!

However, on Saturday I got to do a make-up holiday in the capital city. At the International School, they hold an annual craft fair with local artists, fun snacks, music, the works. So, I spent the morning at the fair with friends. That night, my friend Lorinda who happens to love to cook prepared a feast. We had the works. So, you see, being a missionary is not as hard as you think!

I just want to add that I'm so thankful for all the Lord is doing through Burkina Faso Outreach. I'm blessed with wonderful donors, prayer partners, friends and family and on top of all that, I love what I do! Thank You!
